

Are European banks still living in a man's world?

Brenna HUGHES NEGHAIWI and Tom SIMS

Reuters

When it comes to gender diversity at the executive level, Europe's biggest banks still lag Wall Street and global peers. Why, despite investors' and policymakers' efforts, have European lenders fallen behind peers in diversifying their C-Suites? What are the entrenched barriers, and what are the conditions for change?

Brenna Hughes Neghaiwi (Reuters) and Tom Sims (Reuters) will present findings from an extensive data analysis undertaken by Reuters in early 2022, examining gender diversity at the top of Europe's 25 biggest banks, and from dozens of experts on the challenges and opportunities they see within European finance to facilitate change.