LIVE CLASSES

The course features five live sessions:

- an optional ‘brush-up’ session for those wishing to review the basic concepts behind the course
- two recap live classes led by Prof. Wooldridge
- two lab sessions including:
  - exercises in breakout rooms (60 minutes) of individual work followed by TA-led discussion within groups
  - discussion and Q&A with the course director

Participation in live sessions is mandatory. Participants who cannot attend one or multiple classes due to serious and pressing personal or professional reasons are required to notify the course facilitator beforehand.

*Live classes are occasions for active interaction between course participants and faculty members. Consequently, you are required to connect to all live sessions with an active webcam and a microphone.

OFFICE HOURS

Office hours are occasions for course participants for individual online meetings with Prof. Wooldridge and the Teaching Associates (TAs). Participation is optional. Slots with Prof. Wooldridge must be booked via the online platform.

HOMEWORK

In Weeks 1, 2 and 3, you will be asked to complete two homework exercises.

- The homework assignments will be reviewed and assessed by our TAs, but will not be graded.
- You are encouraged to review the homework exercises submitted by the other course participants, in small groups.
