Navigating Impact Investing – a practitioners' guide

17 - 19 November 2025

fbf.eui.eu

Introduction

In this course you will learn from practitioners at world leading impact investors how to work effectively as an impact investment professional as well as how to measure and assess impact.

The rise of impact investing has marked a transformative shift in the investment landscape, aligning financial goals with social and environmental good. Global assets branded as “ESG” are predicted to hit $40 trillion by 2030. The Global Impact Investing Network, estimates that “impact assets” increased from USD 95 billion in 2017 to USD 213 billion at the end of 2022, at an annual growth rate of 18%.

Industry bodies in recent years have created a broad range of instruments to define principles and standards on what sustainable or green finance is. In the EU, a new Sustainable Finance package has been introduced with laws and regulations that both shaped — and materially increased — the obligations of businesses to understand, assess, and disclose the social and climate impact of their operations.

In this context, investors and market players interested in sustainable finance and impact investing need to develop a broad range of capabilities and skills at the intersection of finance, economics, climate science, and regulation. This is what this training offers: the knowledge and skills needed to navigate the field of impact investing and its growing toolset.
